

Kyle's Korner

This Lord's Day is also the eve of Memorial Day. Memorial Day has, for many of us, become a day of family gatherings and cookouts, and seemingly more important, a day off of work. Memorial Day is actually intended as a day of remembrance, remembering our fallen soldiers. The Grand Ole Opry had a special in honor of military and especially those who have "fallen." Is it wrong for us to do the other things? I don't think so. Those who have given their lives in service to this country, I believe, would be proud for us to be able to celebrate such freedom in peace because of their sacrifices. But, in celebrating, I hope we never forget the reasons we are able to do so.

What is a memorial? Google (is Google just as relevant a source as Webster's 🤖) defines it as, "something, especially a structure, established to remind people of a person or event." On the Greenway, cemeteries and other places throughout TN are plaques set up as memorials for our remembrance. There are statues set up similarly.

In the Bible, there are also various memorials. Grave markings, altars and so forth are said to be reminders of what took place in the past. Some of these are still standing today.

One memorial given stands out to me as the most important to us as Christians... the memorial remembrance of Jesus' death in the partaking of the Lord's Supper. It is a solemn occasion in which we are reminded of His great sacrifice for us in the bread and the cup (His body and blood). This sacrifice was made for the saving of our souls.
